Sir:

Prior to examination on the merits, please amend this application as follows:

In the Claims:

What is claimed is:

1. (Amended) A method for optical information presentation on information, on a mobile device, comprising:
 - providing a graphics/text presentation, for use with stored graphics and/or graphics elements used in the mobile device;
 - calling up the stored graphics and/or graphics elements via address and position data transmitted with text information, and positioning them on an optical display unit; and
 - assigning a predetermined number of channels for each category of the information to an additional service, each channel allocated a respective specific set of stored graphics and/or graphics elements.
